

Former All-American Key in Rescue of Pennsylvania Coal Miners

---

Sean Isgan, former Pitt Johnstown All-American heavyweight wrestler and owner of CME Engineering Inc. in Somerset, Pennsylvania, played a very key role in the rescue of nine coal miners trapped 240 feet below ground at the Quecreek Mine in Somerset, Pennsylvania. Isgan's company and team of engineers, pin pointed exactly where the air shaft and rescue shaft should be dug to locate the miners trapped underground from late in the evening of Wednesday, July 24 through the early morning hours of Sunday, July 28. In addition, Isgan's company assisted with lowering the water