TEMPE, Ariz. – The 2017 Pac-12 champion Arizona State wrestling team announces their 2017-18 dual and tournament competition schedule, which will feature both historically perennial and current powerhouses as well as three top-12 and four top-20 dual foes from last year's NCAA's.

“I'm excited about the opportunity to compete this year,” said head coach Zeke Jones, who was named Pac-12 Coach of the Year last season. “Adding teams like Pitt and Lehigh connects us to competing with some of the best teams on the east coast, along with teams like Ohio State and Michigan, who are both top five teams. We're ready to go and excited to get the season started.”

After the Michigan State Open (Nov. 5) to start the regular season, the Sun Devils open their dual schedule at Michigan (Nov. 10) and Ohio State (Nov. 12), both of which finished top-10 at NCAA's last season, before returning home to Tempe.
