Lourdes Women's Wrestling Tabbed Fifth in Mid-South Conference

Lourdes University's women's wrestling team was picked to finish in a tie for fifth place in the Mid-South Conference during the Gray Wolves' inaugural 2020-2021 season according to the preseason poll conducted of the league's head coaches.

The Gray Wolves finished with 13 points in the balloting, tying Brewton-Parker for the fifth spot. Lourdes finished just behind Indiana Tech and ahead of seventh place Saint Andrews in the poll.

Campbellsville, the league's defending regular season and tournament champion last year, gained five of the seven first place votes and was picked to repeat. Life was voted second with one first place vote while Cumberlands (Ky.) captured the other first place vote and was selected third.
